One Year To Remember... 1

One Change At A Time!

Along with the Cintas Center and the surrounding parking lot, additional space during construction made room for some brand new, and badly needed, intramural ball fields.

The gym floor shines as it is seen here during the warm-ups of the first regular seasons men's basketball game at the Cintas Center. A sold out audience saw the arena take its first victim.

The Musketeer mascot, D'Artagnan, stands tall as he welcomes fans to the newly assembled Cintas Center. In its inaugural year, the multi-million dollar facility housed not only sporting events but homecoming and others as well.

In a once unmistakable hot spot on campus... an unrecognizable hole temporarily stands. The new Student Center will be between Brockman Hall and the classroom buildings.

Campus growth was not the only change in 2000. Newly acknowledged X.U. President Fr. Michael J. Graham makes a speech as former president Reverend James Hoff looks on.

Xavier student Cirita Johnson takes advantage of a break from classes to eat at the new Skyline Chili attraction on campus. One of the renovations this year was to provide students with more eating options.

A Xavier student passes through a Cintas Center turnstile prior to an event. Although ticket distribution was similar to last year, several big games required students to lineup ahead of time in order to prevent possible denial.

Behind a fence that not only prevented trespassing, but blocked student freedoms as well, the new Student Center begins.

All the modifications made around campus decreased the areas of commuter and overall student relaxation and comfort.

The ever - magnificent face of Xavier University, St. Francis Xavier, still welcomes students up the stairwell of Victory Parkway.

A New Look!

Despite the cold weather, Bellermine Chapel invites the Xavier family inside for its warmth and fellowship.

A flock of students attentively watch a soccer game. Many times, large sporting events bring people together.

Alumnus, our extended family, enthusiastically cheer on the Muskies at a basketball game.

*Family

Juniors Colin Scott, Scott Kase, and Kevin Mueller pose while winding down after a night out. After spending time at large gatherings, some students occasionally found enjoyment just relaxing at home.

Lauren Amyot and her date, Paul Sarbaugh, pause during the 2000 homecoming dance at the Cintas Center. To the dismay of students, the building constructed primarily for events like these failed to decrease ticket sales.

ne Family!

Like a scene from the end of a movie, part of the Xavier student body explodes with animation. Students show that at X.U. we enjoy each other's company.

Members of the volleyball team show that friendship extends to sports as well. Teammates could regularly be seen together.

A group of students get rowdy at a weekend party. Parties, although occasionally unruly, more often than not only succeeded in bringing people together.

Four representatives of the Xavier University Navigators retreat in Indiana. Student organizations make it possible for students to meet one another and get involved.

Several students receive academic recognition at a rally in the Cintas Center. Academic clubs and organizations increase opportunities for students.

One Spirit!

Underclassmen Michael Doran and Josh Masters show support after the nationally televised U.C. win. Xavier basketball games give many underclassmen their first glance at victories of such magnitude.

J.P. Englebrecht and fellow fans cheer "X-tremely" loud at a men's basketball game. Complete with T-shirts, cheering guidelines, and props, the X-treme fans compiled the majority of the student section.

A couple Xavier girls proclaim their allegiance to the blue and white during a student rally. Student gatherings during games had to suffice at times for a lack of sufficient ticket distribution.

The men's basketball cheerleaders congregate for a team picture. A separate group of students maintained this fierce level of spirit by cheering for the women's squad.

What appears to be mass chaos is really just a typical reaction by students to the excitement that seems to have the newly acquired Cintas Center repeatedly bursting at the seams.

Two die-hard fans hide their faces, but not their spirit, at the U. Mass. basketball game. After the game, perhaps the souvenir towels and T-shirts served as a means to wipe off the impressive paint jobs seen throughout the arena.

Andy Seitz works the fans after the infamous "token ball toss" during a home game time-out. Both the dance team and cheerleaders inspire energy and loyalty among fans.

One Xavier student reveals his shirt prior to the Crosstown Shootout. The front appropriately bashes the Bearcats...

...and the back of his T-shirt endorses the victor. Xavier has won four out of the past five contests, determining the annual city champion.

A group of loyal fans have a fun time making noise during a critical women's soccer game. X-treme fans covered more than just men's basketball games.

Got Spirit?

Patty Retko hangs out with Claire Striewe and Courtney Fellers. Relaxing during big parties was not always this simple.

Dan Kaspar and Olivia Leverone enjoy each other's company on a road trip. Going out with friends on weeknights provides a nice break from school.

Although it may not appear like it, good friends Kevin Mueller and John Slavik had fun taking a break from the action on this particular night out.

Among Friends!

Students walk in the frigid cold across the academic mall between classes. Particularly during warmer weather, students could be found separating themselves from groups in order to sneak in an extra five minutes with their friends.

Jill Gilbert and Ryan King "cut the rug" at the Latin Dance. Dances enabled people to have some privacy while still being part of a bigger group.

One Among Many!

A group of freshmen get together in the dorms for a picture with friends. Identifying the people that stuck out as individuals within groups was never a difficult task.

Jackson Goodnight does what every student dreads. He takes a break from the commotion on campus to sit silently by himself and study.

Four girls conceal their exhaustion after a heated intramural game. Intramurals successfully paired current friends against forthcoming ones.

Kerry Oversteak and a fellow trombone player charge up the student section. Situated in the center of the students, the pep band bolstered fan support with a variety of songs.

Two underclass girls pose on a pullout couch prior to taking a nap. Plague-like exhaustion sometimes infects students, knocking them out of the fast-paced college life for a few hours.

me Great Time!

Three upperclassmen enjoy spring break in Miami. Sacrificing money and school work, many students still took well de-served vacations before catching their breath and getting back to the grind.

Junior Scott Kase holds his girlfriend in his arms, taking a minute to whisper something in her ear at a party. Visitors, attracted to Xavier's atmosphere, became almost regulars around campus.

X-treme fan Mike Herrel seems to be popping a vein while encouraging Xavier against their opponents. Thankfully, amidst all the fun and loud cheering, no injuries were reported.

The boys in blue run out in a fury to 10,250 screaming fans, a pep band, and our school banners during the first ever game at the Cintas Center. Nothing compares to an entrance like that.

Ashley O'Maley, Michelle Millenior, Kristina Schapell and Adera Ralston do what they do best. Sometimes students wanted nothing more than hanging out with friends.

Two boldly and artistically painted Xavier students drink while "bare-ly" watching X.U. edge out a win. Even with the new Cintas Center's alcohol sales, that are uncommon for a collegiate coliseum, the people inside its doors did not need beer to get excited this year.

Several twosomes dance the night away during the Latin dance. Dancing with friends is sometimes more preferable than with a date.

During an intense but friendly intramural basketball game, one player gets to know another ... the hard way.

Two classmates do some clowning around. Something fun or peculiar always found a way of happening around campus.

Assembling together for the division one sporting events, played here on campus, is always unforgettable and exciting.

After Another!

Great Times

Fans file into the arena with a pregame ritual of their own... mingling and trying hard not to get trampled.

An ROTC member displays adoration for our country and the Muskies as well.

Members of the Xavier dance team look good while not even dancing. Fans requested their return after the squad missed several games.

Won!*

Pep band drummer Josh Kauffman plays during a break in game action. Over the course of the season, the pep band uses lively and popular music to pump up the Cintas Center crowd.

With the return of books at the Xavier book exchange, students intend on repossessioning some loose change. Unfortunately, the university had other ideas in mind, crediting only limited returns.

One Common Goal!

The Orquesta Tempo prepares to perform for students at the Latin Dance. Finding good musical accompaniment did not prove to be a difficult task at Xavier.

Junior Dan Kaspar relaxes in the dorms while visiting some friends. Apparently, some students have no problem achieving their goal of skipping classes and sleeping in.

The X.U. Concert Choir performs brilliantly under the direction of Dr. Roehrig at the fall concert. Xavier's finest voices, who sing at many different events, seek only to entertain.

David West slaps the hand of fellow teammate Alvin Brown in approval. Perfection, the obvious yet all too unattainable goal for athletes, does not come easy.

Edgecliff Hall stands erect and impressively built... and houses department offices and some classrooms. One alluring quality that yearly attracts new recruits to is the beauty of our campus.

One for All!

Xavier students get immeasurable satisfaction from giving inner city children a little love. The concept of service does not escape people on Xavier's campus.

Jen Jacob, and Andrea Bytnar take a break from vacation. With the unfamiliar faces at spring break, it was truly "One For All" and always pleasant to see other X.U. students.

Juniors Scott Kase and Kevin Frey take a break from finals. Abandoning sleeping patterns and even showers, finals week found students with different agendas reaching for similar goals.

Some pep band members gain individual recognition while standing with their parents. Periodically, personal achievement should be and is acknowledged at X.U.

Two students combine their efforts to study for a Nursing test. Coinciding schedules, sharing notes, and having study partners made the struggle for satisfactory grades much easier.

The Xavier cheerleaders balance togetherness and synchronism while energizing the fans. All year they impressively demonstrate devotion with their athleticism and precision.

Chris Wesley jokingly proclaims that the pressure has gotten the best of him. However, many students seek friendship and advice as the cure for their real stress.

Chris Meeks flexes his individuality. Certain students branched out to find that many times, success came without assistance.

Underclassmen spell out freshman (Romain) Sato on their chests. Sato quickly made a name for himself with his impressive athletic ability.

Women's basketball players react to their last regular season game of the season. Their winning streak continued on into the N.C.A.A. tournament.

For Us All!

Together

One memory after another
Samantha Skaggs and Laura Berlier show off their costumes at their last Halloween party at Xavier. By year's end, seniors have to realize that graduation not only introduces a new beginning, but it was also a way of saying goodbye.

One last tribute

Each athletic team has a designated night to honor its seniors and their parents. Here, at the last home game of the season, Reggie Butler and Marcus Mason get the spotlight and some appreciation.

Right: Senior
yearbook photographer Samantha
Skaggs and Steve
Perry at the X.U.
Fall Ball Dance. Far right: Seniors Tricia
Giessler, Molly
Heidemann, and
wings.

Photographer Bryan Sirbu was a busy man on campus this year. He seemed to be everywhere working hard for this annual. He captured these shots of senior recognition.

X.U. prides itself in student accomplishments whether they be in the classroom or on the playing ground. Supporters are plentiful and enthusiasm reigns.

Each year it becomes difficult to "let go" of these talented athletes. Our only hopes are that they achieve as much in life and take the X.U. experience with them.

Getting To Know

ne Another

ne night stand

Three girls have a laid back evening of dining and hanging out at a local establishment. Relaxing with hall mates was a great way to familiarize oneself with his or her surroundings and develop friendships.

ne way of communicating

Despite their popularity, cell phones were not necessary for meeting friends in the friendly confines of the dorms. Here, with good humor, two students display that fact.

One On

ne late night.

A student joins the herd of people who flock to the library and try to seclude themselves for a study session. Due to the construction around campus, late night study labs were limited.

ne method of quietude.

One student contemplates over his exam in the lounge of Buenger Hall. The dormitories, where students had access to convenient studying, provided ample alternatives to library overcrowding.

Academics

more than one point of view...

What was your most difficult subject? Philosophy! Uck!! What advice would you give a freshman? Get to know your profs.
- Rajiv Bawa

What was your most difficult subject? Science. What advice would you give freshman? Meet as many people as possible.
-Mike Moroski

What was your most difficult subject? Math. Ugh! What advice would you give a freshman? Push yourself out of your comfort zone.
-Pat Scallen

What was your most difficult subject? Math. What advice would you give a freshman? Try to take your core classes first.
-Laura Siegmann

English & Finance Departments

Our diversity speaks volumes!

What was your most difficult subject? Selecting a casserole in the old cafe when Miss Edith was serving!

-Kerry Overstake

What was your most difficult subject? Rhetoric II. What advice would you give a freshman? Savor every minute.

-Amy Schell

What was your most difficult subject? Statistics. What advice would you give a freshman? Be active.

-J. Nicholas Schmalenberg

What was your most difficult subject? Rhetoric II. What advice would you give a freshman? Go to class.

-Rachel Napolitano

Many students expressed that it is a good idea for freshman to familiarize themselves with the "big building with all the books in it..."

Art & Economics

Go to class...take notes...study prior to the exam...right

Some students elaborated that it was necessary to exercise instead of napping and that it was a good idea to make friends with the exchange students!

Below left: Classics Department: Mr. Edmond Cueva, Dr. Susan Shapiro, and Dr. George Harrison. Below right: Criminal Justice Department: Ms. Miriam Sealock and Dr. Jack Richardson. Not pictured: Dr. Mike Endres.

Classics & Criminal Justice

Chemistry Department

Right: Chemistry Department: Ms. Donna Hyndman Glaser, Ms. Barbara Barker, Ms. Vimala Majeti, Ms. Barbara Hopkins, Mr. Aaron Baba, Mr. Edward Fenlon, Mr. Craig Davis, and Ms. Mary Stroud.

Accounting & ISS Department

Communication Arts Department

Communication Arts Department: Ms. Cleaster Mims, Ms. Debbie Pearce, Mr. Bill Hagerty, Ms. Miriam Finch, Mr. Tom Schock, Ms. Tara Michels, Mr. Bill Daly, Mr. Randy Patnod, Mr. Dave Smith, and Mr. Eric Anderson.

Education Department

Dr. Milton Partridge, Dr. Sharon Merrill, Nike Chine-Bailey, Mary Lisa Vertuca, Beth Bronsil, Dr. Lee Hamill, Dr. Mary Ann McConnell, Dr. Winston Vaughen, Dr. Ron Quinn, Dr. Ginger McKenzie, Dr. James Booth, Dr. Lon Kriner, Dr. Bonita Burns, Tom Bangert, Virginia Hewan, Dr. Tim Riordan, Brett Massie, Dr. Brent Richardson, Dr. Leslie Prosac-Beres, Dr. Sharon Korth, Dr. Doug Olberding, Dr. Lee Bradley, Dr. James Gaffney, and John Waddell.

History & Music Departments

Above left: History Department. Above right: Music Department. Ed Klene loves X.U.'s liberal arts program but poses the question, "Do we really need to take Theory of Knowledge?" Katie Griggs felt ALL of her subjects were the most difficult, but had the greatest times in photography."

We regret that many departments have not updated their photos and that we may not have proper identification. We are working to correct this!

No Offense, But...

Despite poor record, Men's Soccer looks toward next year.

This past year, Xavier men's soccer looked to bounce back from a disappointing 1999-2000 season. Once again, the team appeared to have all the right ingredients but could not get the job done. A final record, including four wins, may spark the Muskies to be more offensive minded next year. Despite a subpar season, there were some high points the win/loss record might not make clear. The Musketeers took several close games into overtime only to come up short, and much like this upcoming season will be, they had to overcome some major personnel losses. An impressive junior class will lead the team into next season with three vacant spots left open from the graduating seniors who will be greatly missed.

The Musketeers nearly made it

2000 should have been the year for the Xavier volleyball team's first ever NCAA Tournament bid. After opening the season with three straight losses, the Musketeers bounced back, winning the first sporting event ever held in the new Cintas Center with a 3-0 victory over MTSU and then sweeping the rest of the Xavier Invitational. They finished the season with a 23-8 record overall and a 13-3 record in the Atlantic 10, tying them for second place in the regular season with the Temple Owls. Led by senior co-captains Gina Geraci and Tami Ores, along with junior A-10 Player-of-the-Year, Sara Bachus, the Musketeers went on a nine game winning streak late in the season. Their woes came almost solely from conference rival George Washington, however, who took first place in the A-10 and came out victorious all three times against Xavier this year. A convincing 3-1 victory over the Temple Owls in the A-10 Tournament opener was only to be stifled by GW in a 20-18 five game battle in the A-10 Tournament Championship. This killed Xavier's hopes for an automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament and the Tournament committee snubbed the Musketeers despite their late season conquests and A-10 Tournament play.

After losing two all-conference players from last season's team, this could have been a rebuilding year for the Musketeers. Their success through hard work and strong leadership has undoubtedly proven otherwise.

Setting the Standards

Captains & freshman make it happen

The men's swim team was all about record-breaking this season. Despite a 2-4 match record, they performed their best ever at the A-10 Championships with a 7th place finish. Individual record-breaking also took place at the Tournament with junior co-captain Geoff Brown coming in 3rd in the 1650-yard freestyle and breaking his old school record by 6 seconds. He now holds the team record in the 1000 freestyle as well, and the team of Brown, freshmen John Janszen, Brad Roedecker, and senior co-captain Louis Dissel made a new school record in the 400 medley relay at the Tournament. Other stellar freshmen achievements include Janszen's record-breaking in the 100 & 200 backstrokes and Jeremy Clark setting a new school record in the 200 breaststroke.

The leadership of head coach George Rathman, senior captains Dissel, Don Rielag, and Brown were key to the success of the season.

This was their best finish in school history and they did it in spectacular fashion. Senior co-captain Rachel Reilly took 3rd place in both the 50 and 100 freestyles, breaking the school record in the latter. Freshmen Brittany Kessler and Molly Moeller also made 3rd place finishes and broke school records in the 1650 freestyle and 100 backstroke, respectively. Freshmen Angie Hinrichs and Moeller also broke records in the 200 freestyle and 200 backstroke at the Tournament, respectively. Further school record-breaking took place in the 200 medley, 200 freestyle, and 400 freestyle relays at the A-10 Championship. Reilly, Moeller, Hinrichs, freshman Danielle Miller, and sophomore Meghan White were all important contributors to the team.

It's About Tournament Time

The 'X' Factor

The 2000-2001 season began with high expectations. It came to a startling halt when the Muskies lost their head coach of seven years, Skip Prosser, and the first round tournament game that has eluded them for the past two years. However, Xavier received national acclaim with one of the nation's finest arenas and stand out play from several players. Sophomore David West earned conference Player-of-the-Year honors and was among the national leaders in many categories. Freshman Romain Sato made the All-Rookie Team, and senior Mo McAfee joined the 1,000 point club. At one point during the season the men were recognized as the nation's 24th best team. Their final record was 21-7.

Women's Basketball

This was a basketball team to remember

The Xavier women's basketball team couldn't have marked the first year of their new home, the Cintas Center, much better than they did. Overcoming some devastating preseason injuries, the Musketeers put together a 31-win record and a first ever trip to the Elite-8 of the NCAA Tournament, making for the best basketball season ever in Xavier history. A shocking 15 point victory over national powerhouse Tennessee advanced the Musketeers past the Sweet-16 and into a battle with 3rd-seeded Purdue. A tough loss to the Boilermakers ended a remarkable season.

Head coach Melanie Balcomb has yet again topped her stellar career at Xavier by building a team that was nothing short of phenomenal. Led by seniors Nicole Levandusky, A-10 Player-of-the-Year Jennifer Phillips, Taru Tuukkanen, Jennifer Parr, and sophomore Reetta Piipari, the 2000-01 team will be remembered for a long time to come.

The Muskie dance team entertains at halftime

In athletics, Xavier's sports teams have made for an exciting 2000-2001 year. A big part of this excitement can also be attributed to this year's dance team. The Musketeer dance team has been an intricate part of energizing XU fans at games. Performing at halftime was a full-time job for these young women who practice daily. With a funk/hip-hop, jazz, character, novelty, lyrical, and modern routine style, the dance squad has roused the crowds with intensity and enthusiasm. Utilizing turns, kicks, leaps, and combinations, it has been a delight to watch these scholar-athletes perpetuate Xavier tradition and spirit.

Xavier University's cheerleading squad was a core part of its teams' countless victories this year. The hard work and dedication of these men and women was just as important as the athletes they cheered for. They were a huge factor in charging up the fans and bringing the massive new Cintas Center to a deafening roar.

Utilizing pom-poms, plastic balls, and countless other Xavier paraphernalia, the cheerleaders combined gymnastics to put on a spectacular show. Making human pyramids, performing cartwheels, front and back flips, handsprings, and flying high into the air were just some of the tricks the squad would use to inspire the masses.

Senior co-captains Melissa Beck, Paula Greening, and Chaley Peelle saw to it that this was the case. Impressive in the Notre Dame Invitational with a 3rd place team performance, the Lady Musketeers showed individual prowess as well. Big Behind the Plate

Sophomores hit well, future looks bright

Posting a 21-34 record overall and a 9th place finish in the Atlantic 10, the Musketeers saw and played their share of good baseball this season. The 54 run game against Bowling Green provided ample evidence of this, with senior Jeff Crandell's grand slam, and slugging sophomore performances from Eric Greenwell, Matt Tedford, and Jarret Sues. Perhaps cleanup hitter and 1st Team All A-10 member, sophomore Mark Andres, exemplified best XU's offensive power with a .338 batting average and a team high 55 RBIs throughout the season.

Senior co-captains Ed Bongard and Ty Brenning also contributed extensively to the team behind the plate, as did junior Greg Wiggers and senior Matt Raih on the mound. -Darren Delfosse

Xavier rifle delivers an Olympian to Sydney

Opening the season was particularly special for XU's rifle team this year. Sophomore Thrine Kane and 1996 graduate Jason Parker represented Xavier at the 2000 Olympics in Sydney, Australia. Both qualified for spots on the team at the USA Shooting National Championships in Atlanta, Georgia. Kane qualified in 35th place in the women's 50m rifle 3 position competition and Parker finished 5th overall in the men's 10m air rifle competition.

As for the remainder of the season, the Musketeers racked up a number of wins and a sound victory over OSU. In the NCAA Championships Xavier took 4th place and Kane and sophomore Joe Fitzgibbon were named All-Americans by the NRA. Junior Danielle Langfield also took an All-American award.

Impressive freshmen make future bright

The 2000-2001 season showed some promising performances from the women's cross country team. Senior Blanche Fisher and juniors Maggie Dunn and Natalie Lanese set the pace as tri-captains for the squad which was loaded with freshman talent. Freshmen Claire Beck, Patty Green, and the exceptional running of Molly Krumplebeck made for some impressive standings.

The Lady Musketeers took 12th place out of 25 teams at the National Catholic Championship and a solid 12 out of 36 teams at the All Ohio Championship in Delaware, Ohio. A respectable 7th place finish in the A-10 Championships rounded out their season as a team which also has a hopeful future in terms of young individual talent.

XU witnesses match that will not be forgotten

In his 38th season as the head coach of the men's tennis team here at XU, Hall-of-Famer Jim Brockhoff witnessed what he called: "The biggest win for Xavier tennis in the last 15 years." Big words from a man with his history. He was referring to junior Danny Sturdevan's victory over Michigan State's singles star Goran Topalo. A remarkable comeback sealed the win as Sturdevan took the last 2 sets of the match, even though MSU won the war as a team.

However, the Musketeers' season was still much of a success. Finishing the year 3rd in the A-10 Tourney and with a 9-11 record overall, senior captain Kyle Bates headed the squad, along with great performances from Sturdevan, junior Rob Bakker, and sophomore Scott Triplett.

Young talent added to the quality leadership of the squad's two seniors and co-captains, Tracie Fraunfelder and Natalie Palmenter. Freshman Kate Weightman played impressively all year, shining in the A-10 Tournament, both in singles and doubles, and taking the A-10's Rookie-of-the Week award late in the season. Junior Emily Senich, posting impressive numbers throughout the season as well, also claimed an A-10 award as Player-of-the-Week. Juniors Kerrie Kramer and Beth Abraham contributed immensely to the success of the team which looks to start on an even higher note for 2001-2002.

As a sophomore goal keeper, Megan is the 4th goalie in Atlantic 10 Championship history to record shutouts in two A-10 tournament games.

XU dropped a hard-fought 2-0 match at Illinois on November 8th in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. It was their first loss since September 20th. Annette Gruber was named First Team All-Atlantic 10 Conference for the fourth straight year. Senior midfielder Erin Coley was named First Team All-Ohio, is a four-year starter, and earned All-Atlantic 10 Conference Honors, while Liz Singer was a member of the Atlantic 10 All-Tournament Team. Liz helped lead her team to 11 shutouts- a school record.

Women Claim the Atlantic 10 Championship!

Xavier sophomore goalkeeper Megan Veith recorded a school record of 11 shutouts this season...not bad at all for her first year as a Musketeer. Add to this a pair of shutout victories in the A-10 Championship, which gave her an impressive league best: 0.48 goals average for the A-10 Conference regular season matches. For her efforts, Megan earned All-Championship honors. Yonadi and flip throw artist Nicole Giesting were named to the All-Rookie Team.

The season brought to a close careers of seven XU seniors. XU's last NCAA Tournament berth was in 1998. Coaches Dr. Ron Quinn, Assistant Coach Carrie Taylor, and Kate Berz, Goalkeeping Coach, are to be commended for a great year. Although we are losing seven talented athletes, expectations are high for another great season next year.

XU Athletics Win Again

Muskie sports inspire Xavier spirit

From the countless wild and crazy fans to the explosive play of our many exceptional athletes, Xavier sports have always provided an enigmatic energy that has helped maintain Musketeer pride and spirit. The massive crowds in the new Cintas Center for the men's and women's basketball teams this year are testament to this phenomenon. With basketball, volleyball, baseball, swimming, golf, soccer, tennis, rifle, and cross country, Xavier supplies electric entertainment all year round.

The student athletes that make these teams work should be applauded for their hard work this and every season. Once again, Xavier has made 2000-01 one to remember in the world of sports.

Singing, dancing, the whole nine yards...

The Xavier Players

Try performing theatre in front of hundreds of people without an actual "Theatre" to practice in. With the destruction of the old University Center, this was the unfortunate result for the 2000-01 Xavier Players. Despite the setback, however, this season's "players" dazzled, duped, and downright dumbfounded audiences all year round. Says the Director of the Xavier Players, Cathy Springfield: "It's been a challenge but a good learning experience for us to do theatre in site specific locations and try different kinds of material."

Included in the Players' lineup of different kinds of material were Words That Move, an original art piece by Linda Reiff, Tent Meeting, a piece about a preacher and an interesting revival, Tony 'n Tina's Wedding, Xavier's own, Workshop 2001 and Toolbox, Christmas On Mars, and the famed musical, Godspell. Doing It All In

ne way to have fun

Some girlfriends enjoy each other's company around campus Organizations, school functions, guest speakers or even classes constantly created new found friendships.

Student Life

Senior Eric Brass shows off his print making. The several different styles of art offered at Xavier give students freedom to express the way they feel.

Karen Fuell's artwork, featured below, gets the spotlight at a show. Pottery and clay work was popular among the students.

Objects Of Art

Students in the art department are diverse in their creativity and medium.

Dan McKay stands beside his solo thesis exhibition in Cohen Center. Throughout the year, the art displayed by the students here at Xavier seemed unbelievably skillful.

The creations of Jennifer Reusch are yet to have the finishing touches on them, but the creativity can already be seen. (Bottom Right)

Far From Home

What do you get when you combine friends, noise, and a couple of write ups? A dorm!

Those that live in the dorms know that these seemingly harmless looking buildings are the stomping grounds of some of the craziest times and people on campus. These dorms are not merely a place to play, socialize, and party... we do sleep occasionally. It can be a challenge at times to endure in such a small area. Privacy is definitely in high demand, but all in all, the dorm experience is an intrinsic part of college life. You meet your best friend, bond over a late night delivery from PAPA JOHNS, and moan about your problems and class load to the people in the study lounge. So... when you're bitter over the amount of noise that your neighbors are making at 2 A.M., just keep in mind how grateful you are for the friends that you are making.

Happenings

It's not often that one can find hundreds of Xavier students running around the Cintas Center in formal wear, but Homecoming night found exactly that. The Cintas ballroom was packed with Xavier-ites shaking their groove things. The brand new location far exceeded everyone's expectations and lent a definite air of elegance to the event. After the action packed week that led up to the dance that included everything from a White Castle eating contest to Wizard of Oz characters invading campus, everyone was ready to have a night out with their friends. Sponsored by the Student Activities Council, Homecoming 2000 was once again a major success.

At the Manresa Dance, Ben Krause was finally able to live out his childhood fantasy of being the Tin Man.

Radical

Faith, fun, and friends, and all in one place? What a great idea!

Retreats

From Get Away to Journey to Approach, retreats make up a significant part of life at Xavier. They provide a chance to make friends with new faces, strengthen bonds with familiar faces, and find out and reflect upon what's going on behind your own face. Everyone needs a respite from campus sometimes, and these retreats, sponsored by Campus Ministry, offer just that. Freshman Jennifer Zachara says that retreats such as Journey, a freshman retreat, "allow freshman students to get to know themselves better as well as other students and their relationship with God." These retreats are an opportunity to relax, think, have fun, and they definitely come highly recommended by those who have attended.

Rah-Rah

Looking tough and standing together the X-treme Fans leaders prepare to lead the student body in X-treme cheering.

You want intimidation?

We'll show you intimidation. Freshmen Whitney Olson and Christy Miller get pumped up before the Marquette basketball game.

Musketeer Madness!

A mix of fans, cheering, and a great basketball team makes for a winning combination!

As rivalries go, the Xavier-U.C. game is really the only one that matters. Maybe not to everyone, but for hard-core fans, like those that were waiting out in the cold to greet the men's team after their win, nothing else even counts. Even though most students had to watch the game on TV, there was no less cheering, chanting, and screaming as the X-Men proved who were the real 'Kings of the Court.' Even before the Crosstown Shoot-out, the basketball excitement started at the Cintas Center's first ever Midnight Madness. The men's and women's basketball teams came out in fine form, getting everyone ready and anxious to see what the season would hold. Since it is really only a game, (really!) the important part is having fun, and who does that better than the loyal, do-anything, body-painted, crazy; mostly insane fans? No one!

Interviewing For the Future

Job Fair allows students to get the hands on experience of interviewing.

In the month of March, the Cintas Center holds a job fair that saw 100 different companies which provide students with some employment and learning opportunities. Representatives from businesses around the Cincinnati area show students how to handle job interviews both by accentuating one's strengths and through understanding what job skills should be polished for the future. The forum offered full and part-time employment and internships to students from a variety of majors as well.

Senior Christine Browne speaks to a Convergys representative at the XU Career Fair. Although the atmosphere was a professional one for the students, laughter was visible as well.

Two students discuss their separate career plans within the same field. Similar occupational interests brought many unfamiliar people together.

One young man displays his portfolio and resume to a representative. Proving one's credibility with recommendations and work samples are helpful on a day such as this one.

Two girls take time out from the career fair to exchange experiences and some concerns about the future. Most students realize the occasional difficulty of obtaining a job after graduation.

A Xavier student uses her resources, education, and personality traits to swap questions and answers with a rep. Some students understood the job searching procedure better than others.

Three relieved students take a moment to regroup from the pressure of career day. Relaxing at the refreshment table was a nice change of pace from the interviews.

Funds For Fun

A hired band performs at an outside function for students. Local businesses, restaurants and radio stations also contributed to the enjoyable events.

Hypnotized...Victimized

A hypnotist victimizes one student at a presentation in the Cintas banquet hall. The Cintas Center housed various entertainers throughout the year.

Dance Til You Drop!

Ben Krause gives new meaning to the term "no sweat" at a dance. Letting loose after a week of studying was an easy thing to do at dances.

Musketeer Masquerade

A mini Mardi Gras was put on for the Xavier students in March. Here, a couple participants show off their masks.

Alternative Entertainment

Throughout the year, entertainment, activities, and community functions, are provided for Xavier students to get them involved with other people around campus. Often times, student organizations are responsible for initiating such activities, but the university itself sometimes arranges for these performances and functions. With the addition of the new Cintas Center this past year, generating student interest has been even easier. Olympic boxing, speakers, musicians, and festivals are just some of the performers and events planned for 2000-2001 school year. Out of all the affairs, one of the most entertaining was a visiting hypnotist. Dances are always a big hit, too.

Daydreaming

Students in trances sit alongside unaffected ones at the hypnosis seminar. Events were planned in accordance with different clubs and for the student body in general.

First Dance

A group of underclassmen ready themselves for the fall dance. Dances were especially popular among new students.

The Naked Run

Some runners pose before participating in the "naked mile." In addition to the school's cross country runners, many students run in various city races.

Springtime

Zak Wernecke takes advantage of the first glimpse of Spring. The residential mall constantly explodes with frisbee, baseball and other games.

Joust Friends

Two friendly combatants playfully fight at Styuka. Fun activities and games always enabled students to get to know one another.

Intramural Matchups

Some girls face off in a heated intramural basketball game. Rec sports allowed non-scholarship athletes to prolong their athletic careers to some extent.

Lawn Games

Teep Schlachter and Mike Matera dabble in a croquet contest. The unofficial XU Croquet Club is one of many leisure groups that have a cult following.

Moneytime

A female student shoots for prizes at a men's basketball game. Contests were incorporated into sporting events to make breaks in the action more exciting.

Leisure Time

All year long, students around campus partake in various games and hobbies. Sledding, snowball fights, and indoor intramurals are popular throughout the winter. During warmer weather, frisbee, lawn games, and student challenges thrive. Bike riding and running become especially noticeable in the springtime. Everything from relay races to eating contests invade the campus grounds. The residential and academic malls transform into a frenzy of friendly competition. Complete with mall-walkers and something to please everyone, there is always plenty of good times in store. A newly constructed athletic park ensured everyone's involvement and delight.

Academic Reward

Steve Perry receives a marketing association scholarship award. Satisfaction and achievement can be reached without them, but awards make the accomplishments all the more worthwhile.

Study Buddies

Apparently, two girls cannot wait for the new student center to be erected. They study outside its nonexistent doors.

Academic Challenge

The main incentive for attending an institution of higher learning is usually to further one's education. Xavier University, in particular, allows students to do just that. The opportunities offered here in various majors are endless. The athletic program values and emphasizes education. Naturally, some students value it more than others, but diligent and enthusiastic students represent the majority at Xavier. The hard work often pays off on graduation day whereafter the dreaded job hunt ensues. However, feelings of satisfaction and achievement can be felt along the way. Sometimes recognition and awards make everything seem even more worthwhile.

Job Searching

Dan Sullivan tries to look professional while speaking with a company representative. Students understand the importance of personality and delivery in addition to good grades.

Copying Homework

Suzanne Cook copies some material for class. The campus library provided efficient print and computer resources as well as a place to quietly talk.

Career Advancement

Senior Nick Cook talks with a job rep at the Career Fair. Students tried to take advantage of networking opportunities while looking for jobs.

Job Fair

Elissa Thompson gets feedback guidance from a company executive. The Career Fair comforted students who were initially intimidated by job searching.

Artistic Expression

In the midst of all the academic achievement taking place at a university, something that goes largely unnoticed is the amount of artistic genius inside the campus walls. An unspoken debate exists between the arts and more cerebral curriculums. Still, there is no disputing the talent and effort involved in most artwork. Dance, song, painting, sculpturing, drawing, acting, etc. are several endeavors of the right-brained student. Whether the acts of expression exist simply as pastimes or career opportunities, the finished projects are remarkable. There is no shortage of creative talent at Xavier. Proof of this is everywhere, including Cohen Center art exhibits.

Song Sung Muskie Blue
One student leads his band in song at a local bar. Many people found relaxation in music.

Dancing Delight
Members of the cheerleading squad dance at halftime of a girl's basketball game. Dance interests extend into the theatre as well.

Musketeer Mascot

The Blue Blob attempts to ignite the crowd with his/ her acting ability. Once in costume, some students escape into character.

On Display

Senior Dan McKay gives "testimony" to his artistic talents. The hard work of many artists shine at exhibits in Cohen Center.

Clay Magic

Junior Karen Fuell displays her extraordinary pottery work. The amount of time spent on artwork pays off in the final products.

Concerto

The Xavier Concert Choir warms up prior to a recital. Not only a hobby, singing is a career option for some students.

Refreshed

After the events, students get refreshments from one of the various stands on the mall. The beauty of the week was that it was relatively inexpensive.

Mud Wrestling

Two Geology majors take a break from class to study the earth in a different fashion. The mud wrestling fiasco went on all day.

Scooting Along

A member from the Bamfic Posse team rounds a corner during the scooter race. All week, competitive and fun activities enabled students to unwind.

Rope War

A group of tough guys try beating their opponents in a game of tug-o-war. Guys and girls alike participated in such games.

Spring Breakaway

The spring break phenomenon has exploited many vacation hot spots in the past few years and has become very popular among college students. For the people who do not have the money to go on trips or just for the sake of having fun, a week filled with activities and comradeship was organized right here on campus. Spring Breakaway included games, refreshments, and performers. Even though class was back in session at this time, many students took advantage of their spring break away. Saying it completely substituted for an actual spring break is unreasonable. It was no Cancun or the Bahamas, but students surely had fun with mud wrestling and tug-o-war. -Scott Kase

Dirty Deeds

Two girls show that mud wrestling can be a female event as well. The muck destroyed many clothes that day, but team morale was mostly spared.

Bed Buds

Team Tubesteak Special competes in the bed race. Many contests and activities kept students busy all week.

The Panel

Judges for the contest await their next instructions. The Mr. Muskie selection has become a campus spectacle.

Flower Girl

A female student carries a flower out into the audience prior to the competition. The success of the contest is due to its widespread appeal.

Muskie Favorites

Audience members cheer on their favorite participants in auction-like style. The night consists of talent and performance rounds.

Hopeful

A Mr. Muskie hopeful blows a kiss to his admirers. For such a laid back ritual, the contest is taken seriously and prepared for for weeks.

Just For Fun

Eric Rhodes poses during the pageant, awaiting the judges decision. Win or lose, many students were there to just enjoy themselves.

Stunned

One contestant appears to be nervous as he stares out into the crowd. Each student deserves credit for performing in front of onlookers and fellow peers.

Mr.

Muskie

The Mr. Muskie pageant is a fun way to get students involved and recognizes their creativity and personality. Although it only lasts one evening, the contest is prepared and anticipated for all year. It is a sort of mock beauty pageant where Xavier students perform and are on display for their peers. The competition is complete with a talent round and plenty of laughs. Certainly, the contest can be silly at times, but this is what allows the show to succeed. Make no mistake, however, the annual selection is taken very seriously. Despite its hilarity, the competition is a big deal. This was even more evident this past year via the elegance and style of the Cintas banquet room.

-Scott Kase

Hanging Out

Two students celebrate their friendship by embracing each other after a Xavier win. Supporting one's school was always a good excuse to hang out.

Shuttle Run

After class some girls wait outside Alter Hall at the shuttle stop where many nights begin and end. Sometimes being lazy was a good way to make friends.

Hanging --- Around

One of the characteristics of a good university may very well be the amiability of its general population. Xavier never ceases to make students feel welcome as there is something available for everyone's different interests. Even people with conflicting hobbies or goals seem to get along here. It is certainly a rarity to find students at Xavier who bask in arrogance.

Therefore, students are always seen hanging out and getting along with one another. The time for thinking oneself is superior to others is a thing of the past. Unlikely friendships are sometimes made and either in privacy or group atmospheres students frequently find ways to keep busy with friends.

- Scott Kase

What Age Difference?

Libby Nash and Kate Pauley interact at a party. Students of different class designation often became friends despite their age.

Seniors Fare-well

Some seniors hang out at a restaurant prior to their last week of finals. Sometimes just getting some coffee and talking was preferred.

Inseparable

Two underclass girls enjoy each other's company. Some students never separated themselves from their closest friends.

Relaxing Between Classes

Three pals get comical for the camera between classes. Seeing friends after class provided a nice break from an otherwise monotonous day.

All Work And No Play...?

No matter what season, time of day, or energy level...XU students rally to all occasions!

Career Day informs students of all class designations what salaries to expect, job openings, and employee participation numbers in their respective fields. In addition, the yearly attraction once again brings out impressive attendance, indicating the importance of such a program.

Muskie students enjoy their free time in a variety of ways, as seen throughout this annual. Their ingenuity and ability to cut loose and have fun while learning is an important balance that will impact their lives forever. The staff enjoyed putting together a montage of student life at XU.

Dancing for the crowd is what makes these students special.

Top Right: Tappa Tappa Kegger loose the tug-of-war, but have a blast doing so.

"Boys will be boys." The mud wrestling was a big hit on campus, as was the famous bed race. Shown is team Norwood. (Mike Calvey, Pete Weisenburger, Marcus Kudolph, John Leppert, and Matt O'Mara).

Seniors...

the last hurrah

Three senior girls are blue about their last chance to cheer on their Muskies. The time here at Xavier will not be forgotten, the only problem is how fast everything flew by.

the unforgettable year

Katie Butler, Catherine Mathisen, and Becky Ruohonen enjoy themselves at senior night at the Brickyard. As students matured, going out to bars became less of a "privilege" and more of a way to relax with friends.

One Last Look

Seniors

Standing Proud

These seniors are honored for their dedication to their school and sport. Balancing studies, a social life and practices let alone games and conditioning is not an easy task. Most students learn this their freshman year when they are also adjusting to life away from home and roommates.

Yearbook Staff

looking back to the past year

LEFT: Bryan spent the entire year working as head photographer for our book. You probably saw him at many school functions and games. Make sure he knows who you are next year, and send pictures our way!! Samantha Skaggs majored in advertising with an emphasis in business marketing. She graduated 2001 Cumlaude! Congrats! She has been a free lance photographer since 7th grade. Samantha was VERY active at XU. She instructed swing dances, participated in Navigators, is an AMA and AAF member, Ad Club, Marketing Club, Bacchus, and Yearbook member. Things that she will remember about XU include: meeting her fiance, Steve Perry, old calzones from the Old Cafe, Senior Week, the Old North Lot, and her wonderful friends.

Nicole Losee (bottom left) is majoring in international affairs with a Spanish minor. She shares the house in Lake Orion, Michigan, with four siblings: three brothers and one sister. Nicole chose XU because, "the atmosphere was very open to new faces; I was looking for a small school." She participates in club soccer and intramural sports.

Scott Kase (center) chose Xavier because family went here and he likes the campus atmosphere. His major is advertising, and he resides in Medina, Ohio with his family and dog, Morgan. Scott is 21 and likes sports, movies, and people watching. He is quoted as saying, "I am about to win the Ohio lottery!"

Jobs

While Bryan and Samantha led in our photography department, we welcomed pictures from Lauren and Louis. Lauren and Nicole served as our coeditors. Scott and Darren wrote copy for our annual. Anyone interested in being on staff, submitting pictures or ordering a book, please e-mail dhodgkin@knox.net.

Advisor

Debra Hodgkinson served as 2000-2001 advisor. "It was a year of change, hard work, and dedication. We need advisors, faculty, and students to become involved in promoting themselves, and appreciate those who helped us out! THANKS!"

LEFT: Bryan and Nicole were brave enough for a road trip with "Mrs. H," the advisor, to the Cincinnati Zoo.

Goodbyes...

We are losing Samantha Skaggs, a wonderful and energetic staffer. Surely her life will continue along the same successful path. Good luck, Samantha.

All for me!

We would like to thank X.U. students for supporting the Musketeer Annual. We apologize for any misprints, unidentified, or missed pictures. We work with what we have available. Please feel free to contact the staff with group activities, staff or team pictures, or anything you would like to submit for consideration. To obtain a 2002 book, please watch for information, and remember to get a current portrait taken free of charge when we offer them in the fall and spring. Thank you again for a wonderful year. It was truly "One To Remember."
